CAME OUT THERE — Unknown vandals ripped this telephone console open sometime last Friday night in the Yoe High School language lab. Three administrative offices were entered and contents of some drawers and files were found littering floors. But no money was missing. Investigation is continuing.

108 With F.M.L.

Cameron school officials are studying the possibility of obtaining TV equipment for use in Cameron Independent School District.

One set they were studying was a camera, tape recorder and viewer set which worked live or from tape.

Practical application of such equipment would be broad. Supt. D. R. Dodson noted that such TV tape and receiver equipment alone could be utilized to play tapes from educational television stations, which operate primarily on TV tapes anyhow.

Rosebud, we recall, is erecting a TV tower for reception of an educational TV station in Austin. Consideration is being given another in East Central Texas.

The learning process from classroom TV, both live and recorded, complete with sound, would be given greater incentive with such equipment. Special subjects not possible through a medium sized system could be presented while still getting personal attention from regular teachers.

Though its fare is mediocre, television has contributed to an education revolution in non-metropolitan areas. In fact, there is no such thing as "country" in the isolated sense anymore. So TV application in the classroom would be a fine teacher's aid for Cameron Schools.

Besides, think how many local "celebrities" the schools would have in televising their own programs to other classes of audiences in the same system. It is impossible for all students to see one program simultaneously.

It would have many advantages in a time when classroom costs are rising in the need of more salaries, facilities and work materials.

Polygraph Tests Follow Break-In

Three teen-age youths, High school dropouts, have taken polygraph tests in Austin in connection with a Friday night break-in at Yoe High School.

Damage to language lab equipment was the major loss when unidentified person or persons entered several offices in the Yoe building and scattered papers from desks and files.

No money was missing. Supt. D. R. Dodson said investigation showed that entry was made through a first-floor classroom on the south side of the building. A window was smashed to gain entry.

The person or persons entered the offices of Principal Alvis Fuquay, Secretary Mrs. Lafferty and Counselor Harrison McLerran, all on the first floor.

The language lab, just down the hall, was found entered and one of the phone consoles was damaged (See picture).

Sheriff Carl Black at pretime was in Austin with the three youths where polygraph tests were being administered at the Texas Department of Safety.

Fingerprints were taken in the offices where a few drawers and file locks had been broken and papers scattered. Some 1967 diplomas had been destroyed.

The break-in was discovered Saturday morning when Yoe High Fire Damages Auto Threatens Gas Tank

A fire at noon Wednesday damaged a car owned by Charles Hensley of Maysfield. Cameron firetruck driver Warren McCall said wiring had evidently shorted out, setting upholstery on fire in the back seat.

McCall said the car had been parked near the house and the fire had been discovered in time for Hensley to drag it onto the road.

School students and faculty advisors were preparing for the trip to Brenham for district athletic and scholastic competition.

Investigation by city and county law officials began at the time. One partial footprint was discovered in one of the offices where a large bottle of ink had been overturned on the floor.

Supt. Dodson said it could not be determined what number may have entered the building, though it was not likely it was more than two.

It appeared to officials to be an act of vandalism without interest in taking anything.

Loss to the language lab equipment was covered by insurance, Dodson said.

Authorities Seek Hipolito Gonzales

Hipolito Gonzales, sentenced to serve 15 years in the State Penitentiary on a conviction of murder with malice, is sought by law officials.

Gonzales was free on bond pending appeal of his 20th District Court sentence. The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals rejected the appeal last month and Gonzales has been missing since that time.

Sheriff Carl Black said area sheriffs had been notified. Gonzales was convicted of the August 21, 1965 slaying of Simon Amador during a fight at the LaRumba Bar in Cameron.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Rogers Chapter of the Young Homemakers of Texas met Monday night for the regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Mary Ann Young presided. Final plans for the homecoming float was the main point of business. Refreshments were served.

THREE NAMED EQUALIZATION BOARD MEMBERS

The City Council will meet for a second time this week at 5:30 p.m. Friday after swearing in of three councilmen Tuesday night.

Councilman Joan Hays and re-elected incumbents Lawrence Zolt and Starrett Hickman took the oath of office before regular council business began.

It is a second term for Zolt and third for Hickman and a first term for Hays, Cameron postmaster re-elected after 30 years service.

J. C. Marek attended the swearing in ceremony. He did not seek re-election after two terms.

New Equalization Board members taking the oath of office were: Gordon Basin, Charles Chandler and Joe Heitman.

City Secretary Buddy Fuller said that two additional street lights were authorized by the Council at 15th and Burns and the 800 block of 10th Street.

Public Works Supt. J. B. Earle reported that shoulder work continued on the new airstrip pavement at Cameron Airpark. Asphalt paving was completed last week.

City officials are planning a major opening of the Airpark, but have announced no dates. Officials discussed inviting high state officials to the opening as well as flying clubs, and pilots from around the state.

Earle also noted a general cleanup effort has continued in the southwest part of the city and spraying for mosquitoes has begun at suspected points of infestation.

Earle also noted he is awaiting work authority to begin cleanup and correction of a drainage problem along Southern Pacific tracks in North Cameron. He reported that railroad right-of-way engineers have okayed proposals.

Fuller told The Herald that engineers are also continuing work on profiles and other data on the proposed 100-block residential paving plan.

Water Supt. Alvin Heftt noted two additional water and sewer connections on East Gillis St.

And Lewis Slavik has resigned as electrical inspector.

Mayor Bassel Wilson and Councilman R. W. Wells went out of town on city business and caused the shortened council meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gurecky of Route 2, Buckholts, were killed instantly in a truck-car accident about 8:20 a.m. Friday in Lott.

Both Mr. Gurecky, 76, and his wife, 65, were pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace John Killgore of Rosebud.

The Gurecky car was on SH 320 and a trailer truck loaded with new automobiles was traveling south on Highway 77 when the two vehicles collided in the center of the intersection, according to Highway Patrolman Charles Ingram of Marlin.

The truck driver, Delmar D. Sessums of Hillsboro, was not injured.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Gurecky were at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at St. Cyril and Methodius Catholic Church, Marak, with Rev. Harry Bilski officiating. Burial was in the Marak Cemetery. Rosary was recited at 7:15 p.m. Saturday at Marek-Burns Funeral Home.

Mrs. Gurecky was born in Vienna, Austria. She was a member of St. Anne's Altar Society

RAINS INSURING DROUGHT'S END RANGE 1 TO 2.8

Rains came, the insurance kind.

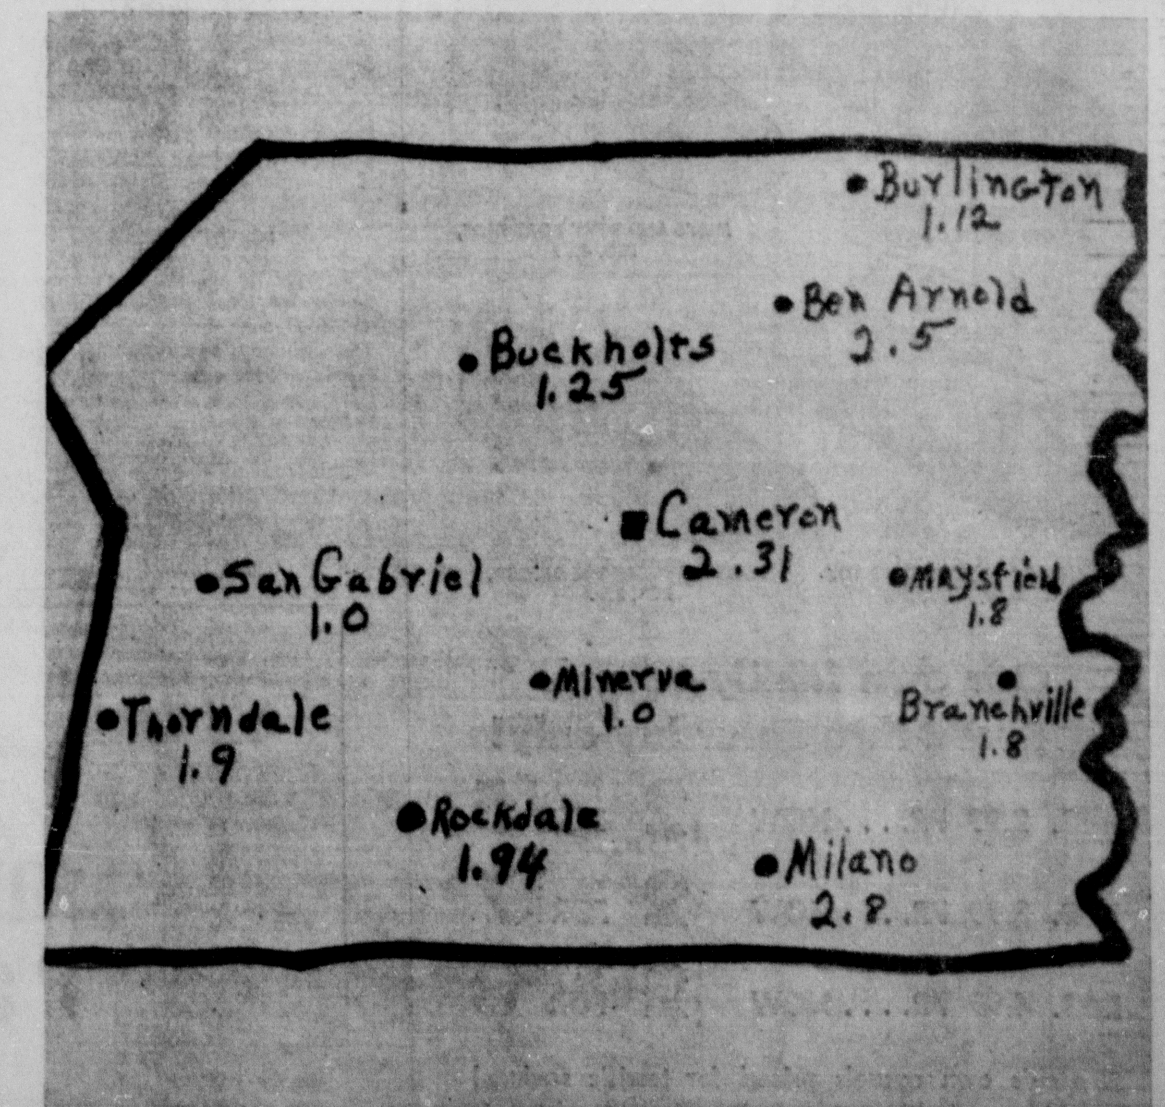

After last week's "drought buster", rains of April 13 and 17 put April, 1967, about par with average April rains. The year 1967 still lags behind annual averages.

In Cameron, a total of 2.31 inches fell in the two recent evenings: 1.18 April 13 and 1.13 April 17.

For the month it is 2.41 inches, according to City weather observers. For the year, it is 5.13 inches, about 6 inches off the mark. Milam-wide, unofficial reports for April 13 and 17 totals included:

Ben Arnold -- 2.5 inches
Branchville -- 1.8
Burlington -- 1.12
Buckholts -- 1.25
Maysfield -- 1.8
Milano -- 2.8
Minerva -- 1.0
Rockdale -- 1.94
San Gabriel -- 1.0
Thorndale -- 1.9

See the Milam Rain Map for a survey of these figures.

RAIN, WONDERFUL RAIN -- Your Milam Rain Map shows moisture in these communities during precipitation on April 13 and 17. Reports are unofficial except those from Rockdale and Cameron which are received from City observers who also report to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Civic Garden Club Program On Growing Plants For Show

The members of the Civic Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Alvin Dusek for their regular monthly meeting last Thursday.

Mrs. J. A. Bowling, program chairman, presented Mrs. Dusek who also gave the program for the day in preparation for the forthcoming flower show on May 10. Mrs. Dusek spoke on "Grooming Potted Plants for Exhibition". She stressed that in order to have a "worthy" plant to exhibit the grower must have strived for cultural perfection.

Plants for lush growth must have been planted in a clay pot (preferred so that the plant may breathe) which is porous, the type of soil demanded by the plant must have been considered, it must have been fed regularly, pinched and turned to develop uniformity and not over-watered. It is better to water a great deal at one time, thus washing through the soil and then letting it practically dry out before watering again.

Before entering the plant for exhibition Mrs. Dusek said, it should be thoroughly cleaned, water spots removed, groomed to rid of any dry foliage or tips, and carefully checked for insect infestation (a judge need not judge a plant loaded with insects). For educational value of those viewing the exhibit, it should be labeled correctly, giving both the common and botanical name when the plant is so known.

Spring is an excellent time of year to start treating the palate temptingly with shellfish. And shrimp, probably the most popular shellfish of all and even a favorite with children, serves as a nourishing and satisfying basis for many tasty recipe combinations. For a delectable lunch or dinner entree—and one that is easy to prepare—try this savory scalloped shrimp casserole. It can be served in its own attractive oven-to-table dish with crisp mixed salad greens and tomatoes.

Scalloped Shrimp

45 Hi Ho Crackers (about 1/2 of 10 ounce pack)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried dill weed
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1/2 cup finely diced celery

1 cup commercial sour cream
2 pounds medium shrimp, cooked and cleaned
OR
1 1/2 pounds frozen cleaned shrimp cooked according to package directions
2 tablespoons butter

Break crackers into medium coarse crumbs. There should be about 2 1/2 cups. Mix with salt, pepper and dill weed and set aside. Melt 1/4 cup butter over moderate heat. Add onion and celery and cook until tender but not brown. Remove from heat to cool a bit and stir in sour cream and shrimp.

Sprinkle about 1/2 cup crumb mixture over bottom of shallow 5-cup casserole; cover with half the shrimp. Add another 1/2 cracker crumbs and then the remaining shrimp. Top with final layer of crumbs. (If desired, save 6 shrimp to garnish top.) Dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Bake in moderate oven (350°) for about 20 minutes, or until slightly browned on top. Yield: 6 servings.

Early Chisholm Trail Promoter Elected To Cowboy Hall Of Fame

OKLAHOMA CITY Joseph G. McCoy, pioneer promoter of the Chisholm Trail, has been elected to the National Cowboy Hall of Fame.

McCoy, born in 1837, was an Illinois livestock broker who helped Texans rebuild their economy after the Civil War. He died in 1915.

During wartime (1861-1865) Texas cattle had greatly increased yet Texas had no markets, so, long cattle drives were necessary in order that a $3 longhorn could be sold to northern markets for $25 to $30.

McCoy founded the first adequate cattle market for Texans by securing cattle cars and building loading pens at the railroad in Abilene, Kansas.

This was near the upper end of the trail started by Indian scout and trader, Jesse Chisholm, and used by Texans on drives through Oklahoma to Kansas. McCoy also had part of the Chisholm Trail, best-known of several Texas cattle trails, surveyed and marked to aid cattlemen.

Some 10,000,000 cattle were driven from Texas during the years, 1866 to 1884, in one of the greatest mass movements of animals under the control of man in the history of the world.

In December 1872, the M.K.T. Railroad reached Denison, Texas giving the state its own shipping point for cattle. McCoy moved to Denison in 1873 and helped establish the Atlantic and Texas Refrigerating Company to benefit ranchers by shipping dressed beef.

Earlier this year, McCoy was honored by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee in commemorative ceremonies at Denison.

OUTDOORS
IN TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

Surf fishing along the Texas Gulf Coast is fun ... especially in balmy weather.

But ... sometimes even the hardest surf fishermen want to cast beyond the surf without getting their feet wet. This time comes to all of us when the air and the water temperature both are too cold for wading out.

Ability to fire that lure or bait far beyond the seaward breakers rests not in the physical build of the fisherman but in the build of his tackle.

In good surf casting all the work of whipping out the lure is done by the rod. Like the little motor that starts your car engine the fisherman merely puts the casting act into operation.

Before the advent of glass rods, true surf rods were frequently seen in use along the Texas coast. Just about every rod was made from a calcutta pole and ranged in length from nine to 12 feet.

These calcutta rods had a lot of whip. Unfortunately, however, they had a bad tendency to take a set. And even the most beautifully wrapped calcutta was never a rod of true beauty in appearance.

Attractive glass rods simply knocked calcutta into oblivion.

Except for fly-fishing, most glass rods were five to seven feet in length. They were ideally suited for general bay, pier and boat fishing. But not for surf casting—where a combination of a whippy rod and length is the answer to a long cast.

Fortunately, rod makers again are catching up with the specialized needs of fishermen today. A number of reputable companies now make good surf rods—glass ones—ranging from nine to 13 feet in length.

Man, when you hitch one of these rods to a heavy-duty spinning reel, you can get casts out of this world. Or, like the old salt says: "You can chuck it out where the big ones are."

Conventional free-spool reels will cast nicely with a surf rod. But the casts will not be as long as those with the open-face salt-water spinning reel.

Another advantage of the spinning reel is that lighter line, smaller in diameter, can be used. You'll find there's much less current drag when using small diameter line. Due to this fact the sinker will hold the bait in place and virtually eliminate currents "rolling" the line back to the shore.

Today's glass surf rods are made in one piece or in several sections. One-piece rods are great except for the problem of hauling around. If you buy one of these longies the best thing to do is to have some rubber rod-holders attached to the roof of your car.

Then carry the long rod on top where it's less likely to be broken. One thing for sure, it's dangerous to drive around with one of these long rods sticking out a car window.

Two-piece surf rods solve the portage problem. They can be broken down to fit nicely inside the car. But, remember, the two-piece rod isn't without its drawbacks. It doesn't have as much spring-like action. And you have those metal ferrules to consider. They take a beating from the salt water.

Even the finest metal will corrode unless proper care is taken. So, after every trip take the rod apart and thoroughly clean the ferrules. Then coat the ferrules with a light film of oil.

DIPLOMATIC POUCH

WASHINGTON D.C. The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State.

Jewish Plight in USSR

The enclosed resolution condemns the persecution by the Soviet Union of its 3,000,000 Jewish citizens. If protest in the strongest possible terms is made, there is evidence to believe that a great modern day tragedy can be averted. Unless the conscience of the world is aroused, the Jews who reside in the U.S.S.R. are in danger of cultural and spiritual extinction.

You are urged to use the great powers of your office to appeal to the Soviet Government for a drastic change of its present policies.

P. D. P.
Indianapolis, Ind.
Dear Mr. P.:

The highest officials of the United States Government have not hesitated to express their concern over the plight of the Jewish community in the Soviet Union. Unfortunately, the U.S. Government is limited in its ability to take direct actions to improve the lot of Soviet Jews. Government-to-government approaches in the past have been brushed aside by claims that there is no anti-Semitism in the U.S.S.R. and that, by raising the subject, we are attempting to interfere in the internal affairs of the Soviet Union. Such an exchange of views has no positive effect on the lives of the Soviet Jews whom we wish to help.

While official actions by the United States Government can be publicly dismissed by Soviet authorities as "cold war" propaganda, the expressions of concern by millions of private individuals and groups such as yours may ultimately influence Soviet policy.

Diplomatic History

As part of my program of graduate work, I am studying your publications Foreign Relations of the United States. I am interested in the history of the series. When was it started, was there a predecessor, what are the plans for the future?

W. F. S.
Santa Ana, Cal.

Dear Mr. S.:

This series of publications is unique, and has no predecessor. No other government attempts to release the record of its diplomacy in such detail, or so soon after the events described. Most governments do not admit scholars to their archives earlier than fifty years after the events. Our chief problems at the moment are to avoid falling further behind. The volumes for 1944 have not all been published though they should be by the end of the year. We are thus now some 23 years behind currentcy. This is a reflection of the enormous proliferation of documents in recent years, and lack of personnel to cope with them.

There is a good brief account of the history of this series by Dr. E. Ralph Perkins, entitled "Foreign Relations of the United States: 91 Years of American Foreign Policy." It is printed in the Department of State Bulletin, December 22, 1952, pp. 1002-1006. There is also an article by Professor Richard W. Leopold of Northwestern University, "The Foreign Relations Series: a Centennial Estimate." It appears in The Mississippi Valley Historical Review, vol. XLIX, No. 4 (March 1963), pp. 595-612.

Plans for the future do not envisage a radical departure from past practices. They do, of necessity, contemplate a more selective choice of documents to be printed, and an effort to keep the number of volumes for each year within a reasonable limit of six or seven for each year. The volumes are prepared by a small group of professional historians who comprise the "Foreign Relations Division" of the Historical Office. Nearly all of them have had advanced training in diplomatic history and the criteria for employment do not differ essentially from those of a recognized college or university.

Services Here For Joe Corbran, Air Crash Victim

Joe B. Corbran, 44, of Houston, was killed in an airplane crash near Raymondville at 11 p.m. April 14. He was married to the former Mary Jean Dockery of Cameron and was the brother-in-law of Mrs. Joe G. Matula, Cameron.

Corbran and a business associate, John J. Doremus and their pilot, Joel D. Snider, were returning from a business trip to Mexico when the accident occurred. The FAA reported their plane had apparently exploded in mid-air. Cause of the explosion was not determined.

Mr. Corbran was a Certified Public Accountant and owner of several accounting firms. He was born in Sheffield, Pennsylvania and had graduated from Baylor University. In World War II he served with Patton's 3rd Army during the invasion and liberation of Europe.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Jean Corbran and daughter, Viki Clay of Houston; his mother, Mrs. Anthony Corbran of Warren, Pennsylvania; two sisters, Mrs. Connie Albough of Warren, Pennsylvania and Mrs. Patty Kirsch of New York City; two brothers, Jerry Corbran of Cleveland, Ohio and John Corbran of Houston.

Funeral services were held at the Green Funeral Home Chapel in Cameron with the Rev. Mark Lewis of the First Methodist Church of Quitman officiating, assisted by Rev. Richard Freeman of Cameron.

Palbearers were J. T. Johnston, Galveston; B. M. Tarpey, W. E. Hill, Charlie Stott, Ray Sims, all of Houston and Van Reed of Cameron.

Mrs. Bill Love is visiting her daughter and family, the C. Titsworths. A former Cameron resident, Mrs. Love is now living in California.

On Increase

Texas Aged Population

The number of aged persons in Texas, those 65 and over, is increasing at a faster rate than the state's total population. Projections for 1990 indicate an aged population of over 1.1 million, say Dr. R. L. Skrabanek, B. E. Dickerson and W. K. Upham of Texas A&M's Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology.

In a recent publication, they indicate that the number of Texas aged persons will command wider public attention in the future. As a group, their political importance will continue to grow, and more attention will be given their recreation and housing needs, pension plans, retirement programs and medical and welfare services programs.

Preventive medicines, better diets and control of communicable diseases have resulted in more people living longer. In 1960 there were 610 persons 100 years old or older living in Texas, and 43,000 were 85 or older.

The researchers reason that, with current retirement policies in effect, an increasing number of Texans will have 35 years or more of "doing nothing" after retirement.

Also, since women live, on the average, 6 years longer than men, female numerical superiority increases with age and women will continue to control a greater share of the nation's wealth in the future.

The researchers point out that, with many young people entering the labor market each year, and the need to advance younger workers, a sharp increase in voluntary and compulsory retirements has taken place. This has resulted in a decided downward trend in the employment of older people in recent years.

Many elderly people have an income problem. In 1959 the median income of all families where the head of the household was an elderly person and where both husband and wife were living was less than half the income of all families in Texas with both husband and wife living.

Another problem is housing. After retirement, income usually drops, often making necessary a move to less expensive housing or accepting an invitation to live with younger relatives.

Homes for the aged offer a solution to this problem. Since 1960, these homes are no longer being established in isolated locations; excellent medical care, rehabilitation and food services are being offered, and programs have been developed for purposeful activity and maintenance of community contacts for the residents.

More detailed information on the aged population in Texas may be found in bulletin No. B-1057, Characteristics of the Texas Aged. This publication was published jointly by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Copies are available at the county Extension office.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

—By—

J. D. MOORE

The Milam County cattle situation was getting critical before the recent rains. Some of our county pastures looked more like mid-August than mid-April.

Native grass pastures should be fertilized with 60 to 100 pounds of nitrogen depending on the productivity of the soil. Plans for weed control should be made. We've got to learn to live with chemicals. The most common chemical for weed control is the amine form of 2-4-D. This herbicide could be used more effectively in this area if precautions were taken.

First, be sure you use the amine form, add a wetting agent, 1/2 to 1 cup liquid laundry detergent per 100 gallons of water. Use 1 pound of 2-4-D amine per acre in 15 to 20 gallons of water. Wind velocity should be 5 miles per hour or less. A boom-type sprayer with nozzles near the ground allows more accurate placement and minimizes drift. Dr. Palmer, specialist in weed control at A&M, says the amine form of 2-4-D properly used could eliminate some of our weed problem. Weeds should be sprayed when they are young and in good growth.

Temporary pastures are of much value to stockmen. Our management could be improved by making more economical use of the forage produced. When hybrid sorghum or sudan reaches the boot stage, they should be either grazed down or baled for hay. Electric fences to concentrate on grazing areas could help.

New varieties and kinds of forages are continually being evaluated to determine varieties best suited for use in various areas of Texas.

Observations and evaluation tests other than forage production indicate that hybrid sudan varieties generally have larger leaves but a lower leaf and a higher prussic acid potential than the standard sudan varieties. Thus, on a leaf-yield basis, the forage production of hybrid sudans may be greater than for most standard varieties but not as much greater as indicated by total forage yield figures. In general, the sudan-sorghum hybrids produce the greatest yields of forage, averaging 20 to 50 percent greater than the standard sudan varieties.

Don't forget that good farming practices, management of cattle "on" and "off" and hay harvesting the surplus on time will fill your barn and fatten your cattle.

BEN MILAM STATUE

A Viet Cordon . . .

If it is possible to cordon off North from South Vietnam, it might be a preamble to a cessation of bombing by the United States.

The U. S. on several occasions has stopped bombing, only to document by aerial photo continuing infiltration by the Viet Cong during a moratorium.

Premier Ky, frontrunner for election under the new Vietnam Constitution, would increase the bombing, an interesting attitude even for a military man. He is a native of Hanoi.

It is possible to seal off a segment of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) where southward V-C movement is most active.

Precedent is as recent as the Berlin Wall. Precedent in antiquity is the incredible China Wall, some 1500 miles long and the only man-made object visible on the moon, scientists say.

The Berlin Wall took only weeks,

the China Wall a good part of a century.

The jungles of Central Vietnam are dense and also are the unmapable passage ways for southward infiltrators. It would be an immense engineering job, but not beyond achievement.

If the stoppage at key points proves effective, the promise of mile-by-mile partition might be even a more effective admonition for peace than bombing.

It may be President Johnson has urged Ky's efforts as a prelude to one more cease fire-cease bombing attempt. Though 67 per cent of Americans favor the war, a pacifist minority still allows Hanoi a split view of American attitude toward the war effort.

And the Administration obviously seeks an honorable end to this impasse in Southeast Asia.

Who wouldn't?

On Short Staple Too Long?

Though rains came, the cotton producer in Milam County still faces a dilemma. His short staple sells for less than long staple, for which there is a greater demand. Government supports favor the long staple.

Long staple cotton requires a longer growing period, irrigation, plant food management and insecticide control.

A longer short staple is being grown successfully by farmers across the river in the Brazos Bottom. They began irrigating years ago.

Special machinery is required to pick the longer staple, expensive to lease in this area because it is not heavily used.

Reliable sources say that irrigation would be necessary in West Milam County to work with long staple. An irrigation district, which finds little support, would be necessary to produce enough water at an estimated $8 per acre.

Those experimenting with long staple in Milam County have found the transition expensive . . . and risky.

If the Brazos Bottom can produce irrigated, longer staple cotton in Robertson County, why not in Milam County? But then, is it worth the effort? And is it practical?

Credit Code Bill Passed To Senate

By Vern Sanford

House of Representatives has passed to the Senate a far-reaching consumer credit code regulating most consumer loans and allowing banks higher interest rates. Gov. John Connally recommended the code which resulted from a two-year study of the credit field.

Bill by Rep. Randy Pendleton of Andrews establishes maximum credit charges, limits required insurance on loans, requires disclosure to borrower of all charges he must pay and prohibits misleading advertising.

Pendleton said his measure would provide Texas with one of the most "comprehensive and effective" regulations of consumer loans in the nation.

But Rep. Paul Floyd of Houston claimed the bill would "increase cost of money to borrowers."

Code covers all fields of credit under $2,500 whether loans are by banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions or pawnbrokers. Installment purchases, including those of autos, are included.

Proponents contend that consumers will have a better loan market if banks and other lending agencies can charge the same rates as finance firms.

Although opponents emphasize that the bill allows up to 240 percent annual interest (on a loan of $10 for one month), rate permitted still is a reduction from that now fixed as ceiling in that class of small loans. (Actual charge on the $10 transaction under the code would be $2.) Reduction is about 25 percent below those now charged for loans under $100.

These rates are authorized by the code:

—Auto installment loans — $7.50 per $100 on new cars ranging to $15 per $100 on autos over four years old.

—Regulated loans — $18 per $100 annually on first $300 and $8 per $100 above $300, to $2,500.

—Secondary mortgage loans on residential property — 8 per $100, same rate as on installment loans.

—Retail installment sales and services would be limited to $12 per $100 for first $500, ranging down to $8 over $1,000.

—Revolving credit maximum would be one and a half percent per month for first $500 of unpaid balance and one percent on unpaid balance over $500.

OPTOMETRY BILL DELAYED Bill to reverse State Board of Optometry ruling which restricts multiple-office practice and advertising of eye glass firms under trade names (e.g. Texas State Optical, Lee) was sent to subcommittee after hearing before Senate Public Health Committee. Fate of the bill is uncertain. Contested ruling, upheld by State Supreme Court, was made by six-member Board, five of whom are independent optometrists.

Dr. N. Jay Rogers of Beaumont, TSO head, said Board ruling was aimed at curtailing competition and would run up prices of glasses.

Board attorney Charles Babb argued advertising would not be prevented by ruling, although he criticized some advertising by multiple-office optometrists. He said intent of Board's ruling is to require optometrists to practice under own names and maintain closer relationship to "patients."

WATER RIGHTS LAW — After 50 years of effort, Texas now has a water rights adjudication act to help solve water disputes without prolonged and costly court battles. Act follows the "Oregon plan" of administrative procedure in refereeing water wrangles, plus automatic judicial review.

Riparian users must file a record of their claims with the Texas Water Rights Commission, the administering agency, by Sept. 1, 1969.

Backers of the bill said they hope it will prevent repetition of cases like the Rio Grande Valley water rights suit which has cost an estimated $10,000,000 ($400,000 of that out of state funds) over years of litigation. Case now is on appeal.

INDUSTRIAL AMENDMENT — Legislature has cleared for submission to voters next year the first constitutional amendment of this lawmaking session — to permit cities and counties to issue revenue bonds for industrial development.

If approved by Texans in the November, 1968 election, bonds could be used to build industrial plants for private concerns and repaid through revenues of the corporations. No tax funds would be obligated.

MEDICAID BILL ADVANCED — Senate has passed a bill to implement the "medicaid" program of medical assistance to needy which would provide a program totaling more than $200,000,000 in the next two years.

Federal government will match state expenditures on a four-to-one dollar basis. Bill, virtually assured of House passage also, would provide hospital, nursing home and physicians services to public welfare recipients, including aged, blind, disabled and families with dependent children.

MH-MR LEGISLATION — Last week was a big one for Mental Health-Mental Retardation.

House passed a bill to allow MH-MR board members to be paid for every day they work instead of just the days they attend a meeting: bill transferring the authority to license private mental hospitals from the State Department of Health to MH-MR; and a bill to allow the voluntary admission of mentally retarded persons to state schools.

House MH-MR Committee favorably reported a bill setting out the schedule of monthly payments for persons in mental retardation facilities: bill to allow MH-MR to make contracts for the provision of MH-MR services with hospitals and other private facilities; and a bill to require county attorneys of counties where community centers are located to file suit to collect fees for the treatment of non-indigent persons in those centers.

TRAFFIC SAFETY — House Committee on Highways and Roads favorably reported two bills and sent two others to subcommittee.

Reported back to the House were bill to expand motor vehicle inspection requirements to make them conform with federal statutes and bill to provide for reflectorized license plates to be issued in Texas beginning in 1969.

Sent to subcommittee were bill to establish a uniform crime reporting system and bill to increase the amount of damage required before a written accident report must be submitted to the Department of Public Safety.

MORE BILLS — Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall introduced resolution urging Congress to take action toward a constitutional amendment to permit voluntary prayers and Bible reading in public schools.

Senate passed bill to authorize creation of institutes of urban studies at University of Houston and Arlington State.

House voted for new medical school at Houston, dental school at Dallas.

House Agriculture Committee sent to subcommittee the bill to allow Agriculture Commissioner John C. White to issue "stop-sale" orders when he finds a violation of the state's weights and measures laws on food packaging.

Bill by Rep. Oscar Carrillo of Benavides to exempt from tuition at state-supported colleges and universities students from families with annual income of $4,800 or less was referred by the House Education Committee to subcommittee.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

The other morning I got my fishing gear together, picked up a copy of The Houston Post to sit on in case the bank was wet, and headed for my favorite spot.

But when I got there, not the paper spread out, settled down and looked up. I found two other men already fishing ahead of me, so I picked up The Post, after all, everybody knows it can be read as well as sat on, and came on back home.

On an inside page I found an article that got me to thinking. It was telling about the opening of the trout season in some state, Virginia I think it was, and accompanying it was a picture showing hundreds of people lining the banks of a small stream casting away, the odds being I calculated about three fishermen per trout.

What I would like to know is why the Supreme Court sitting on its hands in this connection?

Why hasn't it come out with a one-man, one-fishing spot ruling?

It's one thing to rule that a man in the country is no longer entitled to four votes for a man in the city, although you'll have to admit the nation came a long way under this arrangement but just as fundamental is the right of every man to his private fishing spot. One man, one pond, that's the way it ought to be.

I don't quarrel with the Court's ruling on the one-man one-vote proposition, after all, there are some people in state and national government I don't want to take four times the responsibility for, which is why I suppose the Supreme Court made the ruling. It relieves the country voters of a lot of embarrassment, and we appreciate the Court's thoughtfulness.

But back to the subject at hand. If you agree with me on this one-man, one-fishing spot idea, get hold of our Congressmen and let's get the ball rolling.

It's spring, and there's nothing worse than trying to fish elbow-to-elbow with some city man who thinks that just because his vote is now as good as mine he has a right to my fishing grounds too.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

WHAT KEEPS AMERICA GREAT?

The greatness of America is a unique combination of principles, people and things. Consider just one element of this greatness . . . the free enterprise system.

It is this system which lets a man select employment where he can best apply his skill and energy to business and industry . . . to produce and supply goods and services . . . and to profit in accordance with the value of the results.

Operating under the free enterprise system, Texas Power & Light Company provides employment for more than 2,500 people . . . supplies a needed service to more than 1½ million people . . . pays about 24 cents out of every revenue dollar to help support local, state and national governments . . . and earns a reasonable profit for its investor-owners.

As individuals . . . as businesses . . . as a Nation, we are stronger because of our free enterprise system. By maintaining this system, we help assure our strength in the years ahead.

Today Carol and I dusted her doll collection and packed it away. I must admit to a feeling of sadness, for the moment made all of the wedding preparations suddenly become real. Carol is being married in less than a month, yet it seems only yesterday John and I brought her home from the hospital.

Hansel and Gretel were last, and I smiled as I packed them. For they remind me of Carol and her young man. They seem such dreamy young innocents, but are really quite practical. Already they've solved many of the problems John and I never thought of until after our marriage. Yes, their path is well marked through the forest of matrimony.

To be sure, they may have troubled times, but they share a deep and abiding love for God that promises strength and comfort beyond their own resources. With God and His church at the center of their lives, they cannot fail.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Please go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Cong. Poage Urges Bankers To Invest In Rural America

Cong. W. R. Poage advised bankers to "invest in rural America, for your own self-interest -- and to halt and reverse the crowding and packing of our people in city slums and ghettos."

In an address to an Agricultural Credit Conference of the Kentucky Bankers Association Sunday, Cong. Poage said "I urge the bankers of America to lead a Main Street U.S.A. crusade, America desperately needs this. And your investments in Main Street will return profits to you."

Citing the increasing crime rate in overcrowded cities, he said the nation confronts "a moral and spiritual crisis, which will never be met by a coercive manipulation of our people from Washington."

The chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture observed that few people seem to realize the impact that conditions in agriculture have had upon our cities in the last 15 to 20 years.

The Congressional farm leader reviewed the farm income situation. He emphasized that 11 consecutive years of farm prices at or above parity, from 1942 through 1952, under the old production and price stabilization program, enabled farmers through their own income to finance a mechanized and scientific agriculture. He pointed to the general deterioration of farm income during the middle and late 1950's when farm production and price support programs were relaxed, and the recovery of prices which began in 1961.

"But now," he said, "in this year 1967, we are on the edge of another farm depression. Farm prices in March and April were at 74 percent of parity. Farm prices have dropped by 8 percent since last August."

"On top of this the minimum wage law is being applied to agriculture for the first time in 1967."

"Low prices and higher labor costs no doubt will bring about greater mechanization in agriculture. I fear that many thousands more people will migrate from our farms to the cities."

Poage urged bankers throughout the country to insist upon policies to assure fair income for agriculture.

"Obviously, this is to your own self-interest. It is important to the general well-being of the economy of our country. It is especially vital to our cities."

Then he urged the bankers to give their attention especially to encouraging and financing industry in Main Street towns.

"Good farm income and humming small industries in our towns and villages will hold people in rural America," he concluded. "It will stop and reverse the flow of people into our impacted and slum-ridden cities."

State - Wide Agriculture Study Results To Be Heard At A&M

COLLEGE STATION A year-long examination of the state's agricultural conditions and aspirations will climax here April 24 when industry leaders and Texas A&M University personnel gather for an Agriculture Study Rendezvous.

Purpose of the session is to hear recommendations from the agricultural leaders on how Texas agriculture can be expanded and improved.

University President Earl Rudder said the A&M System Board of Directors requested the project about a year ago because of the importance of agriculture to the state's economy, its increasing complexity, and the responsibility of A&M to the industry.

Dr. R. E. Patterson, dean of the A&M College of Agriculture, said registration for the Study Rendezvous will start at 7 a.m. at the Ramada Inn.

Talks begin at 10 a.m. with a general review and overall recommendations by Fred Wulff, Jr., Brady rancher. H. C. Heldenfels of Corpus Christi, president of the A&M System Board of Directors, will follow with a talk on "Appreciation and Dedication to Follow Through."

Rudder will discuss "Texas A&M Today and Tomorrow" at a lunch.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Assassinating a President

To many foreigners, and to many Americans as well, one of the oddest aspects of the assassination of President Kennedy was that the United States had no law against it.

Was this just a legislative oversight? Not at all. On the contrary, such a law had been proposed and debated a number of times over the years—and had always been turned down.

Of course, that does not mean the assassination was legal. The lack of a federal law merely reflects the fact that, in this country, the punishment of crime has always been entrusted primarily to the individual states. The presidential assassination, while not forbidden by federal law, was clearly forbidden by the laws of every state.

Why this arrangement? For reasons both historical and geographical, most crimes fit more naturally into state and local jurisdiction. It would seem strange indeed to have the federal government prosecuting the man who holds up the corner grocery or who drives recklessly down Main Street.

And the Constitution itself, while giving the states a free hand to deal with crime, gives the federal government no such leeway. The federal government may punish crime only if the power is: 1) given expressly (for example, the power to punish treason); or 2) given by implication (for example, the power to punish interference with the United States mail).

As a rule, the crime of murder has no peculiar significance to the federal government. Neither expressly nor by implication does the Constitution give the federal government a general power to punish homicide.

Yet, murdering the President is more than just murdering a man. It is a blow at the government itself, because it destroys the central repository of the nation's executive authority.

Furthermore, as a practical matter, federal agencies—which have the duty to protect the President—should be better able to investigate such a crime.

The Kennedy assassination lent fresh urgency to these considerations. And at last, 176 years after the nation began, Congress has finally given overwhelming approval to a bill making it a federal offense to kill the chief executive.
